

Do you worry about the images your daughter sees on TV,
online, or in magazines?

Do you sometimes just not know what to say?

Do you want to aid in the development of a playbook that can help dads and daughters communicate during this time?

There's NO Playbook for Raising a Teenage Girl !

Focus Group for Dads of Girls in Grades 6-9

The University of North Carolina's Eating Disorders Program is conducting a research study to explore the experiences of fathers of middle school and high school girls.

- Participants will take part in a two hour focus group to discuss their views on a variety of issues related to perfectionism, eating, communication, fashion, media, and peer influences.
- Participants will receive a follow-up emailed reflection survey one week after the focus group. There is no cost for participation.

Please contact the Research
Coordinator at (919) 966-2882
OR dads@unc.edu

UNC
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE